

Christmas Boxes Will Be Mailed Tonight to Men Who Are Overseas

Narberth's Plan of Remembering Soldiers Is Unique in America; $1950 Raised by Donations; Committee Expects More; Gifts to Be Displayed

Tonight's the night and midnight will probably have come before the several scores of Christmas boxes for the Narberth men who are overseas are packed, sealed and delivered to Joe Kelley's post office for transport to the far corners of the earth.

For it is true that the Borough is well represented in every arena of war and at this particular interval some of our men are in the thickest of the fray which is occurring on the Solomon Islands.

Narberth's enterprise in sending a Christmas package to every one of their local men who is in the armed forces appears to be unique in America, as while some churches, organizations and small city neighborhoods are observing a similar procedure, there is no record of the venture being essayed by an entire community elsewhere, and there is no doubt that Narberth's commitment will be the largest single camp-bound shipment to enter the mails.

Meanwhile, public approval of the general plan continues to manifest itself by additional contributions, the score now being about $1950, and there will be more coming from those whose promises have not as yet been fulfilled.

Starting next week, the various gifts will be on display in the windows of Ralph Dunne's fuel offices and it can be expected that the exhibit will have the finished flair which is always characteristic of Mr. Dunne's handiwork.

The committee states there is still time to add to the overseas list if the necessary information is phoned today, Friday, to the Chairman of the List Committee, Narberth 26-83.

It is also reported that some of the churches are adding to the boxes with gifts for their own service men communicants and which they have provided at their own expense. The committee has welcomed this co-operation, as not only will the men be pleased because of the special remembrance by their church group, but there is a better chance of such articles arriving at far destinations if they are included in the same well-safeguarded cartons which will carry the Christmas gifts of the community at large.

Tin Can Money Will Be Divided

Half Will Go to Defense And Half for School Activities

As Lower Merion's special Junk Rally scrap metal drive draws to a close with last-minute collections being made of special salvage piles throughout the Township, house-holders are turning their attention to the tin can campaign now being waged through Lower Merion's elementary and junior high schools.

School children, their families, neighbors and friends are joining in the preparation of the cans by cleaning them, removing labels, flattening them and saving them for the rapidly filling barrels in each of the eleven schools taking part in the new drive.

According to representatives of the School Board, who are assisting Chairman Ralph E. Springer and his salvage committee of the Council of Defense, a good coverage is expected, and already hundreds of pounds are coming in regularly to help fill the barrels.

The growing hoard will be weighed in a few weeks when quantities make it feasible to have Township-wide collection from the schools and shipment by carload lot to the destitute plants.

Lower Merion Commissioners last week approved dividing the proceeds from this drive between the Council of Defense and the school children for activities funds.

The Township Highway Department hopes this week to answer all calls for the collection of heavy iron scrap brought to its attention for special removal, and to gather in the last of the scrap piles located at street corners and on vacant lots throughout Lower Merion.

All articles collected by special calls to the Highway Department and from scrap piles set up by the salvage committee of the Council of Defense are sold to wholesale junk dealers, and the amount received is deposited with the Township Treasurer to the credit of the Council of Defense under whose auspices the money will be expended.

Boys Work For Emergency Relief

If you have any old toys or dolls take them to the Fire House, or call Mrs. Mueller, Narberth 3883.

'Everything Is Fine At Camp Attebury,' Writes Morty Breslow

Co. "A," 330th Inf.
A. P. O. 83
Camp Attebury, Indiana
Oct. 25, 1942

Dear Mom,

We got here after 16 hours riding in a troop train. My uniform fits fine. I have lost five pounds from marching and walking around camp. The camp is new and I'm one of the first 1500 here. The boys in the camp are from Pennsylvania and Missouri and are swell. The sergeants are also good. One even helped me carry my pack and bag to permanent quarters.

Tell Harry if he wants to know what happened to bacon and beef, we have it here; also we have all the sugar you can eat.

The camp is the newest and finest in the world. No one ever wants to go out, because we have everything here — five different movies every night, the finest basketball court in America, about three times as big as the Palestra.

The fellows are swell. Me and another Narberth boy, Put Norbloom are together. Some of the officers are from the Main Line.

Love to all,
Morty.

Important Contests Slated For General Election Next Tuesday; Five State Offices To Be Filled

Special Extra — To Kin Of Overseas Service Men

There will be a few inches of space in the Christmas cartons which leave Narberth tonight for the Service men who are overseas; probably enough space to stuff a pair of extra warm socks, or a few handkerchiefs, or something else that the family knows their man can use to advantage.

Nothing perishable can be accepted—and no liquids of any kind—and no article weighing more than seven ounces.

Any such extra gift must be delivered to the Narberth Community Building not later than 8:30 P. M. this Friday evening. It should be remembered that nothing shall be affixed to the package except a greeting and a name as postal regulations forbid any kind of written message in a parcel post package.

Those who wish to avail themselves of this last minute opportunity should hurry, hurry, as all packages must be sealed and in the post-office this Friday evening.

Annual Meeting of Merion Association

The annual meeting and family party of the Merion Civic Association will be held at the Merion War Tribute House on November 4 at 8:15 p. m.

Rotary Principles Guide to Peace

District Governor Was Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Speaker

The only way to assure peace on earth after this war is to carry out the principles of good will on which Rotary is founded, according to Charles W. Churchman, governor of the 179th district of Rotary International, who spoke before the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon on Tuesday.

Churchman, who is associated with his father in the Churchman College at Easton, Pa., is a member of the Rotary Club of Easton. His topic Tuesday was "Rotary in a World at War."

Despite the clubs disbanded in Axis countries and in occupied countries, Churchman reported, Rotary has continued to grow.

In the first seven months of 1941-42, he stated, there were 32 new clubs started in the United States, Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda; one in England, two in Australia, two in India, one in Ceylon, one in Iceland, and 26 in Latin America.

In July, 1942, five clubs were started in Argentina, five in Brazil, one in Chile, one in Great Britain, one in Ireland and one in Mexico, while since then there have been four started in Canada, one in India, four in Mexico, one in Cuba, two in the United States and one in Alaska.

30,000 Seen For G. O. P. Ticket In County By Wood

Chairman Speaks At Pre-election Meeting Of Township and Borough Committee Members Disregard Rumors and Go To Work, Advises McConnell

Lloyd Wood, chairman of the Republican County Committee, told Main Line committee members Wednesday night that it was potentially possible for Montgomery County to roll up a 30,000 majority for the party ticket on next Tuesday.

He spoke at the pre-election meeting of the Lower Merion Township and Narberth Borough Republican committee members at Whitehall Hotel in Haverford. Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., chairman of the Committee, presided.

The County chairman emphasized the fact that this Fall, with the Nation engaged in the most difficult war in its history, it is more important than ever for citizens to exercise their right of franchise and protect the free institutions which we are fighting for.

"Actually," said Wood, "we are hopeful of getting a 30,000 majority. Now, it is only a question of getting out the vote."

McConnell in opening the meeting urged committee members to disregard rumors and rumors that are always prevalent in the closing days of a campaign.

Both Parties Favor $75,000,000 Tax Cut

By Alexander Biddle President, Pennsylvania Economy League

One outstanding feature of the political campaign, which culminates in the election next Tuesday, is the general agreement upon a possible reduction of State taxes in an amount approximating the $75,000,000 estimated by the Pennsylvania Economy League. How the P. E. L. arrived at this figure was described in some detail in the Fall issue of its periodical, "Your Dollar's Worth."

In its platform the Democratic Party says: "The Commonwealth's taxes can and should be reduced $100,000,000 during the next appropriation period. The Democratic Party will reduce State taxes." In its pamphlet on "Executive Accomplishments of the Republican Administration for 1939-42" the Republican Party estimates the "surplus to be used for tax reduction" in 1943-45 at $83,000,000. Governor James says "... there will be a spread of 50 to 80 millions of dollars between our income and expenses of the next fiscal biennium. Taxes may be cut next winter in that amount. General Martin recently used the $75,000,000 figure.

Every individual voting for a candidate of the two major parties will be voting for some one whose Party confirms in principle the Pennsylvania Economy League stand that taxes can be cut at least $75,000,000. It is worth going to the polls to vote in favor of using $75,000,000 for the war effort instead of for increased nondefense expenditures. And to quote Donald Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board: "The right to vote is, in short, what this war is all about. The worker is first of all an American citizen and the first right and duty of an American citizen is to vote. That is the difference between us and our enemies."

Protect Pennsylvania!

Cast a "Victory Vote" for General Martin and the Republican Ticket

FOR GOVERNOR

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

GENERAL EDWARD MARTIN

JOHN C. BELL, JR.

This Platform Insures Sound Government in War and Peace

War and Peace

Demand prosecution of an offensive war, whatever the cost in wealth, energy or human life, until the United States and its Allies have won a complete victory.

Recognize no peace with our enemies except peace with victory. No appeasement and no compromise.

After the war, responsibility of the nation will not be circumscribed within the territorial limits of the United States. Our nation has an obligation to assist in bringing about understanding, comity and co-operation among the nations of the world.

Domestic Issues

Party reserves the right to continue to oppose "the un-American domestic policies" of the party in power at Washington and will fight for the preservation of constitutional government.

Labor and Industry

Recognizes right of labor to organize and bargain collectively. Recognizes right of labor to strike, but admonishes labor to voluntarily suspend that right in times of war and national peril. Commends those organizations which have relinquished the right to strike.

Pledges creation of a committee to study and report to the Legislature proposals for making more beneficial the unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation acts, state labor relations act and anti-injunction act.

Taxation

Will undertake to cut taxes and equitably revise fiscal laws of the state. Recognize duty of state and local governments to reduce levies "wherever possible in the face of decreasing revenues."

Education

Pledges increased state financial aid to local school districts to relieve tax burden on real property. Favors increased teachers' salaries to be paid by state instead of school district appropriations.

Agriculture

Pledges continued aid to farmer. Backs right of farmers to organize. Pledges protection to farm co-operative associations against domination or control by "anyone not directly interested in agriculture."

State Employees

Recognizes immediate necessity and pledges early accomplishment of bringing wages and hours of state employees into conformity with those of private industry.

Men in Armed Forces

Promises "every possible protection." Promises creation of a commission charged with providing work for returned fighting men in needed public works.

Conservation

Pledges efforts to rehabilitate anthracite industry; constant attention to soil fertility, forests and public lands. Condemns Federal Government's failure to extend sorely needed flood control projects.

The platform also pledges "rigid, honest, non-political" control of liquor sales; efforts to encourage small business; and continued "non-political support" of volunteer civilian defense. It condemns the Federal administration for failure to meet the menace of inflation "courageously"; deplores the use of "unnecessary" Federal censorship and raps the projected St. Lawrence Waterway as harmful to both farmers and industrial workers in this state.

You can't pour three pints of water into a one-quart bottle. Neither can you use more wattage than an electric circuit will carry. When you overload your home circuits, lights dim . . . heating appliances "heat up" slowly . . . and fuses blow.

Avoid private blackouts from blown fuses and enjoy better electric service by making your own home wiring survey.

Turn on lights and lamps in every part of the house, including halls, closets, porches, garages, etc. Starting with circuit No. 1, loosen the fuse. Those areas where the lights go out are on this circuit. Check each circuit in your home the same way. Then make a list or diagram showing the number of watts on each circuit. Unless your home has special wiring, this should not exceed 1,750. (The proper size fuse on ordinary circuits is 15 amperes.) Also check the wattage of appliances before connecting. Too many on one circuit often causes blowouts.

'Spectator' Says 2 Recent Books Are Of Special Local Interest

There are two books which have come this way during the last fortnight, and both of them should prove of extra interest to those who believe that this particular part of the earth is a pretty choice section and that it has far more than the usual tale to tell of its men and things.

The first of them is a life of John G. Johnson, lawyer and author, written by Barrie P. Whikelman and published by the University of Pennsylvania Press at $3.50.

Mr. Johnson died in 1917 and so it is not likely that our borough barristers full of whom are such very young men had the chance to know him nor to observe his renowned procedure in the Courts.

There are those of us, however, who recall the astute gentleman very well and who remember that he occasionally took his stool with the rest of us in grabbing a ten-cent sandwich at Horn & Hardart's first restaurant on 13th Street above Chestnut, a band-box affair which was discontinued long ago.

Ordinarily he went either to the Philadelphia Club, where a special table was reserved for him in the grill, or to the Union League, where he always desired a certain corner to eat his raw oysters and if someone else was at his preferred spot he forthwith left the Club and went elsewhere.

Often also he was to be seen trudging along, a walrus mustached man of impressive structure, in the Broad and Chestnut neighborhood, accompanied by the inevitable green bag, and with never a look to the right or left, the problems of the moment seeming to result in an enormous preoccupation.

As a study in the practice of law, the book is well worth a close review by our local lawyers, as well as by the Bar at large, and the latter might presume to hope that Mr. Johnson's payment of a huge sum to a client who had spent that much bootlessly because of his lawyer's inaccurate instructions might well become a precedent for the legal lights of this day to follow.

At his death, there were many who described him as the foremost lawyer in the English-speaking world and it was recorded that he individually handled many more than 10,000 cases.

Mr. Johnson secured himself a home on the west side of Broad, just above South Street, and it was his custom to walk to and from his office. Once home, nothing could induce him to leave until the morning had come, as he took no part in community matters nor could he ever be persuaded to accept any civic or corporate positions, despite the constant efforts of many big combinations to get him on their boards.

The Broad and South Streets house was gradually laden with paintings of large value, and while there was not a complete agreement among the connoisseurs that Mr. Johnson was a master of the subject, there is no doubt that such a sincere and unostentatious gentleman had a genuine appreciation for his art trophies even if he was not able to read into them all that was visible to the more talented specialists. Comparing what he paid for many of his pictures with the sky-high prices they ultimately reached, it would appear, at least to amateurs, that Mr. Johnson knew his way in art as well as in law, and that criticisms of his selections may have been more contentious than correct.

At the present time, the Johnson Collection is in the Art Museum and the one chapter in the book which pertains to his pictures will give a pretty good glimpse of how the most eminent lawyer in Philadelphia's history pursued his expensive hobby.

And it is also interesting to recall that his rather vast expenditures in this direction came from moderate fees, at least for a counsellor of his calibre, for as the book points out, and as many Philadelphians had previously learned, more than one stupendous check was returned on the score that it was many times too much, and despite the gratitude of the clients for whom he had saved millions, no persuasion could induce him to accept more than the lesser sum he indicated.

The book is here for those who would like to romp through its interesting pages and it is hoped that it will be kept in active circulation among those who can profit by it.

The other book is by an old friend of the many men in the Narberth neighborhood who basked in the author's benign wisdom when they studied English Literature at the U. of Pa., viz: "The Plenty of Pennsylvania," by Cornelius Weygandt, and published by Kinsey at $3.50.

Those who read "Philadelphia Ways" and other calm books from the same pen will not expect the new book to be littered with statistics establishing Pennsylvania's priority in the matter of steel output or any such gadgetry. They will know what their man is apt to write about, those things which give earthly existence cultural form and substance; those "unperishable qualities" which Dr. Weygandt claims were to be discerned when the State first took shape and which he asserts are still to be observed and which have their unreceding influence on Pennsylvania's well-being, even at this interval.

There are important things which this tyro feels have been omitted and which are perhaps more significant than some which have been recorded, but the book was obviously and leisurely written merely to give utterance to a kindly gentleman's thoroughgoing appreciation, and on that score it will prove a welcome boon of great charm to any one interested in the old customs and folkways of our Keystone State.

The writing itself will afford a notable exercise in diction, as surely a professor in literature would employ only authentic construction, and so his abstinence from demonstrative pronouns, many conjunctions and other things used by ordinary scribes signals the fact that our every-day dictation might profit from a closer application to a master's rule.

There is no feature of the "good life" that Dr. Weygandt fails to include in his array of prolific detail, and that means that the subject of Pennsylvania food does not escape his experienced attention. He says, for instance, that carrots, except in a highly restricted way, were never intended for human consumption, but only for animal fodder, and there will be many who will agree. Also he asserts that strawberry ice cream should comprise one-third of the actual fruit, and perhaps that explains (the reviewer is speaking, not the author) that when less fruit is used the home-made article is of much paler hue than what the stores sell and which is admittedly colored by cochineal or one of the permissible alibis.

In other words, the deep, enticing shade which seems to make the ice cream more delectable can come only from an abundance of fruit or from artificial coloring.

Dr. Weygandt also says that in his opinion the most distinguished of all Pennsylvanians was Stephen G. Foster and that would seem to be the starting point for a long

Miss Burt Was Bride Saturday Of E. B. Byall

Narberth Girl Wed In Ceremony at All Saints' Church

All Saints' Church, Wynnewood, decorated with cybotium ferns and white pew bouquets, was the setting on Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Burt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burt, 121 Rockland rd., Narberth, and Mr. Evan Bruce Byall, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce Byall, of Philadelphia, formerly of Penn Valley.

The Rev. Gibson Bell, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory brocade gown with a pleated bodice, full long sleeves pointed at the wrist, fitted waist line and full skirt gathered to form a long train trimmed with rose point lace. The tulle veil was thrown back to form a cape with a pleated rose point lace coronet. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Alexander Dean Burt, of Haddon Heights, N. J., sister-in-law of the bride was her matron of honor, and Miss Mildred Gillfillan, of Narberth, was the maid of honor.

Miss Elsa Kerlin, of Philadelphia; Miss Mary Winston, of Germantown; and Miss Jean Byall, sister of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids.

All the attendants were dressed alike in American beauty velvet gowns with draped bodice and skirts, bracelet length sleeves, and fitted waist lines. Matching maline caught by velvet bows formed their head-dresses.

Mrs. Alexander Burt carried an arm bouquet of white pom-pom chrysanthemums with American beauty streamers. Miss Gillfillan carried the same flowers with white streamers. The bridesmaids' bouquets were made up of white chrysanthemums and red celosia with white streamers.

The bride's brother, Mr. Alexander Dean Burt, was the best man for Mr. Byall and the ushers were Messrs. Norman Lehr, Philadelphia; Harold Zakesain, Quakertown; Edward Cornelius, Swarthmore; and Edwin Norris, Merwood.

Mrs. Burt was attired in duobonnet velvet with matching accessories. She wore an orchid corsage. Mrs. Byall, mother of the groom, wore a long sleeved black velvet gown, pink and black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Lower Merion Seeks Fifth Straight Against Phoenixville at Villanova; Cheltenham Eleven Routed; 39 to 0

Now that it has undisputed possession of first place and the inside track in the Big Six race, Lower Merion High School's powerful football team will endeavor to boost its stock in the Suburban Conference in the next two weeks.

Phoenixville High School, perennial Chester County champion, will provide the challenge Saturday when the two schools renew relations on the neutral battleground of Villanova College stadium. Norristown will come to Pennypacker Field for a traditional scrap the following week. If the Maroon should be able to beat both these teams decisively and then win its final two Big Six games it would have iron-clad claims to both titles. And on the basis of its showing to date it should have better than an even chance of doing just that.

When Lower Merion lines up against Phoenixville it will be their first meeting since a free-for-all broke out on Pennypacker Field following a Phantom triumph some five or six years ago.

Phoenixville, like one of the big powers in suburban football, is not quite up to par this season yet has only one name in the Suburban Conference. Undeclared Norristown accounted for this setback to the tune of 13-0 last week. This means the Phantoms will be on the rebound and doubly dangerous Saturday. However, most L. M. fans are confident Coach Dick Mattis' pupils will be able to cope with whatever resistance is offered by the Chester Countians.

This optimism is only natural because the Maroon has shown no signs of slackening its dizzy pace. In fact it looked stronger than ever in handing Cheltenham its first Big Six defeat by the overwhelming score of 39-0 last Saturday at Pennypacker Field.

In winning its third Big Six game and its fourth straight in the Suburban Conference, Lower Merion boosted its scoring total to 137 points in suburban competition, an average of 34 a game.

Heading the high-pressure attack against Cheltenham were Joe DiFelice, a human package of TNT and lanky, glue-fingered Greer Hendel, who has gradually developed into one of the best ends in L. M. history. Each scored two touchdowns.

DiFelice twice crashed over from the one-yard line to cap drives of 64 and 82 yards in the first and third periods respectively. He also booted two extra points and tossed a pass that resulted in another touchdown. This active day's work enabled him to boost to 7 the number of points he has tallied in the last three games.

Hendel ran 10 yards with a lateral pass for L. M.'s first touchdown in the early minutes of the first period and he snared a 22-yard pass for another six-pointer early in the fourth quarter. He also was a standout on defense.

Jack Weir plunged over from the two to climax a 63-yard drive in the second period and Warren Neville accounted for the other L. M. tally with a 15-yard sprint in the fourth quarter.

Cheltenham, which had defeated Haverford and Radnor in previous Big Six games twice managed to pass the L. M. 20 but on each occasion alert defensive play resulted in pass interceptions just at moments when it appeared a Panther score was inevitable.

Lower Merion, which had an edge of 15 to five in first downs, was able to take undisputed possession of first place in the Big Six as a result of Abington handing Upper Larby its first conference setback, 13-0.

Christmas Cartons Made Mature

One of the lines printed on the substantial Christmas cartons indicated they contained "A Gift for a Boy in the Service."

The women at Tuesday night's wrapping party decided that was very much out of order as fighting a war, they said, was a man's job and nothing short of it.

The result was that "boy" was aptly erased, and a big "MAY" substituted, and those who observe the change in Mr. Dunne's window will agree it is a well-done shift.

Voters were again reminded by County Commissioners Fred C. Peters, Foster C. Hillegass and Raymond K. Mensch, who constitute the County Board of Elections, that only a pencil or indelible pencil may be used in marking a ballot. The Election Code prohibits the use of ink, so "don't use your fountain pen," they said. Pencils are supplied in all voting booths.

They also pointed out that the erasing of a mark is the cause of many ballots being thrown out. "If you make a mistake in marking the ballot, don't erase; ask for a new ballot," the Election Board said.

The 190 polling places in the County will be open on General Election Day, Tuesday, November 3, from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m., eastern war time.

Churches Join in Study Series on Latin America

Narberth Baptist Church of the Evangel, Methodist and Lutheran Churches are uniting in presenting a Sunday evening series of lectures on "Bound in the Bundle of Life," a study of Latin America, on November 1, 8, 15, and 22 at 7:45 p. m. in the Methodist Church, corner of Price and Essex ays. The meetings are open to the public.

The Rev. Charles Detweiler, secretary of Baptist Missions in Latin North America, will be the first speaker. He has lived in Latin America for the greater part of his life, spending much time in Puerto Rico, Mexico, Cuba, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Haiti. Mr. Detweiler has contributed extensively to the religious and secular press as translator and author.

The local committee from the three churches planning for the event comprises Mrs. A. J. Sigel, Mrs. Henry Anstadt, Mrs. R. B. Deer, the Rev. Carl Hammerly, Methodist pastor, the Rev. Robert Keighton, Baptist pastor, and the Rev. Cletus Sent, Lutheran pastor.

Bus, Car Stops To Be Reduced

Effective on or about November 1, certain bus stops are being eliminated on all routes of the Red Arrow buses and certain rail car routes. The measure was ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation to cut down tire-wear. All stops to be used along the routes have been clearly marked as such and former stop-locations have had signs posted indicating that buses will no longer stop there.

Since publication of the Baruch report, there is a much more general realization of the seriousness of the rubber situation. Like the tires on private cars, bus tires must be made to last if the buses are to be kept in operation for the duration.
